Cornell Prof Selected By ODK As 'Alumnus Of Year'

Earl Brooks, professor of industrial and labor relations at Cornell University, has been selected as "Alumnus of the Year" by the Beta Tau Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership honor society for men.

Professor Brooks will address the group Jan. 16. Acknowledging his selection in a letter to Lloyd A. Helms, secretary of the faculty, he said that he would speak on "Opportunities for Leadership."

Research Work

Since February, he has been doing research on leadership activities of executives and his talk will present his findings in this field. His research was financed by a fellowship from the Fund for Adult Education.

Graduated from Bowling Green State University in 1935 with a bachelor of arts degree and a bachelor of science in education degree, Mr. Brooks received his master of arts degree in 1938 from American University, Washington, D.C.

Mr. Brooks has been professor and assistant dean of the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell since July, 1947. He teaches courses and seminars in personnel management, conducts supervisory training in industry, and serves as a personnel consultant and arbitrator.

While doing his graduate work, he was a personnel assistant in the U.S. Labor Department. From 1937-39, he was a training director in the Air Force, and later became director of personnel for the National Housing Agency following a three-year period in the U.S. Navy.

Training Program

He has worked on personnel and executive training programs with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, Sinclair Oil, Corning Glass, New York Telephone Company, New York Central Railroad, Ohio Oil Company, Greenbrier Hotel, and the Taylor Instrument Co.

The author of books and articles in the fields of training and industrial relations, Professor Brooks was born in Bloomdale, Ohio. He is married and the father of two children.

'49 Graduate Wins 'Big Story' Awards

Thomas J. Loomis, Jr., class of '49, will receive a bronze plaque in journalism on the NBC radio program "The Big Story," Dec. 15 at 9:30 p.m. (EST).

Loomis majored in journalism at BG and was sports editor of The B-G News. He married Alice Vietmeier, a former BG student and social editor of The Key.

When Loomis' next-door neighbor was killed he took a special interest in the case. His knowledge of the murdered neighbor's habits helped in bringing the killer to justice. At the time of the murder Loomis was a police reporter for the New Haven Register.

For his reporting on "Next-Door to Murder," Loomis will be awarded $500.

Student Court Fines Three, Acquits One

Student Court tried three cases at its last session Tuesday, Dec. 7, Sam Martin, chief justice, said.

Joe Zingale and Al Rava were fined for parking in the assigned area on the west side of Kohl Drive. Zingale was fined $3 for a second offense, and Rava $1 for a first offense.

Norman Guthrie was acquitted on a charge of non-registration of his motor vehicle. The Court based its decision on his effort to register his car immediately upon receiving insurance for it. No proof was presented that the car had been in Bowling Green for more than 24 hours, which is the maximum time allowed before a student must register his car.

Charges of reckless operation and exceeding the campus speed limit were sustained by Court against John Curley. Curley was fined $20, and $10 was suspended. Furthermore, use of his car was suspended from 6 p.m. to 12 a.m. from Nov. 15 to Nov. 24.

Service Fraternity Aids Coed Travelers

Coeds at Bowling Green may benefit from a new project of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, Harry Thal, president, said.

Women traveling home for Christmas vacation by bus may have their luggage taken to the bus depot by APhiO members by sending a card to the organization through the campus mail.

Women wishing this service should include name, campus address, departure date and time of bus, and destination, Thal urged. The service group will then notify the women where to place their luggage and what time it will be picked up.

Proposal For Business College Club Presentec At Convocation

Proposal of a college-wide business club stemming from the interest of the student body was explained to students in the College of Business Administration Thursday morning by Dr. Maurice I. Mandell, assistant professor of business administration.

"The establishment of the all-campus business club would avoid an overlapping of activity between the various professional clubs and eliminate confusion and duplication of effort," Dr. Mandell said. This organization, open to all business students, would enable students to participate in some activity in business administration.

between the various professional

Student Committee Appointed

The idea began last year when students expressed interest in this type of club. Faculty discussion on the matter resulted in the appointment of a five-member student committee to study possible action. William Bittner and Lane Powell, 1954 graduates, and seniors Barbara Howard, Robert Simpson, and John Peterson comprised the committee.

Purposes of such an organization would be to coordinate and stimulate activities of professional organizations in the field of business administration, promote the welfare of the University, foster closer student-faculty relations, foster closer student-businessmen relations, and promote a better understanding of the business world.

To Invite Area Speakers

The committee further suggested that the club be organized along the lines of a modern business corporation, with a board of directors. Area speakers of general interest to business students might be invited to meetings, held approximately once a month, and sponsored each time by one of the existing professional clubs.

Dr. Mandell stressed that the founding of this type of organization depends on the interest shown by the students, and he added that the faculty would give aid and assistance to the students, but that it is solely a student organization.

William F. Schmeltz, associate professor of business administration, addressed the group on professional national fraternities and other business organizations. He said that recent accrediting of the College of Business Administration by the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business would make it possible for further national organizations to be chartered at the University.

A Cappella To Present Fifth Christmas Concert

The University A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Dr. J. Paul Kennedy, director of choral activities, will present its annual radio concert of Christmas music at 11:30 a.m. Dec. 18 over the National Broadcasting Company's nationwide network.

The half-hour program, which will originate from station WTAM in Cleveland, is part of the yearly series of college Christmas programs sponsored by NBC. This marks the fifth consecutive year that the A Cappella Choir has been invited to be a part of the series. WNBK-TV will carry the program to viewers in the Cleveland area.

A familiar melody, "Carol of the Bells," by Lonivich, will open the first portion of the program. It will be followed by songs which depict the story of the Nativity.

Soloists for the concert are Shirley Brechmacher and Carol Spaulding, sopranos; James Stockton, William Shambaugh, and Darrell Askey, tenors; and James Lessig, bass.

quirements, and area of the group. The speakers and their organizations are: Edward Haller, Phi Alpha Chi (accounting); Richard Dorst, Society for Advancement of Management; James Ronni, Bowling Green Marketing Association; Richard Wolf, Insurance Club; Patricia Montgomery, Secretarial Club.

John Behrens, Press Club; Mary Humphries, Sigma Phi (women's journalism); Stanley Richmond, Delta Sigma (men's journalism); Patricia Guthman, Kappa Alpha Mu (photo-journalism); and John Peterson, Sigma honorary society.

"Student organizations, if rightly conceived and managed by students, can contribute important aspects to their education. Such organizations furnish opportunities for students to develop leadership, social and personal qualities, and acquire important information and contacts," said Dean Benjamin L. Pierce of the College of Business Administration, who introduced the 10 presidents.

Jan. 17 First Day For Fees Payment

Registration fees for the second semester may be paid beginning Jan. 17, according to an announcement made by Comptroller Elton C. Ringer.

After students have completed registration and listing of fees in the Registrar's Office, fees may be paid at the business office between 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m.

Every student whose schedule will not be changed is urged to pay his fees early to avoid delays on registration days.

Fees must be paid by 4 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 1, Mr. Ringer said. A late registration fee will be charged after that date.

Picked by judges as the best house decorations in the annual Christmas-time decorating contest are those constructed by Sigma Chi fraternity, left, and Delta Gamma sorority, right. The contest was sponsored by UCF. Judges were Mrs. Luther Bivins, Miss Alice Schaecke, and Mrs. Oliver Hallock.

New Standards For Honoraries Place Emphasis On Scholarship

By PAT GUTHMAN

Honoraries and recognition societies will be affected by new standards adopted by the University, effective Jan. 1, 1955. After this date membership requirements in these groups will be based on scholarship. Members must be in the upper 35 per cent of their class for some organizations, and the upper 20 per cent for others.

These new standards, which are those of the Association of College Honor Societies, were announced in a memorandum from Pres. Ralph W. McDonald. It was sent to all the presidents and advisers of student organizations affected.

The Honors and Awards Committee, composed of Dr. Samuel H. Lowrie, chairman; Robert O. Bone, Miss Myrtle G. Jensen, and Dr. John E. Wenrick, said Friday that they were preparing a letter, which should reach the presidents and advisers of honoraries today, amplifying the president's memorandum.

These standards will help to eliminate the confusion between honor societies and recognition societies which exists here. At the present time there are approximately 40 honoraries and professional organizations on campus.

Recognition Societies

A recognition society bases its membership requirements on majoring and minoring in a certain field, and the scholarship requirements are generally designed so that the largest number of persons can become members. An honorary bases its membership upon high scholastic achievement in a major or minor field. The confusion results from the fact that some recognition societies term themselves honoraries.

The minimum standards are as follows:

1. "General honor societies which base membership eligibility primarily upon the attainment of high scholarship in a broad field of study shall elect members from the highest 20 per cent of the class in scholarship." This affects such groups as Book and Motor, Kappa Delta Pi, and Sigma Honorary.

Leadership Groups

2. "General honor societies which base membership eligibility primarily upon all-around leadership attainment in student affairs shall elect from the highest 35 per cent of the class in scholarship." Such groups as Cap and Gown and ODK would be affected.

3. "Departmental honor societies (the largest number of groups are in this category) which elect per-

Plan To Open Fine Arts Bldg

A plan for opening the Fine Arts Bldg. to art students on Saturday mornings from 8 to 12 and on certain evenings from 7-10 has been proposed by Willard F. Wankleman, chairman of the department.

The building will be open at specified hours on an experimental basis for the remainder of the semester so that students, who have permission, may work on their own. However, the shop, jewelry, and ceramics rooms will not be open for outside work.

If this plan works satisfactorily, the facilities will be available to art students for about 10 hours a week next semester at a charge of $5. This fee will be used to pay someone to supervise the students and take care of the building during the extra hours.

Plans are also in progress to convert the smoking room in the building into a small library, which would be open only a few hours each day. Students and faculty would be closer to the material needed for reference and outside reading, especially in connection with courses in art history.

Today's News Issue Last One For Year

The B-G News will not be printed Friday. The next issue of the newspaper will be Friday, Jan. 7.

Among the many reasons that it has been considered advisable that this be the last issue before vacation is the fact that advertising and news will be so low in quantity that it will be barely financially worth the while to print an issue.

Therefore, we would like to take this opportunity to wish all our readers a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Major Production Tryouts Scheduled

Tryouts for "Angel in the Pawnshop," the next major production to be presented by the University Theatre, will be held from 7 to 9 p.m., Jan. 5 and 6 in the Gate Theatre, according to Harold B. Obee, director.

Written by A. B. Shiffrin, "Angel in the Pawnshop" is a fantasy concerning a young girl living in a make-believe world of 16th Century knighthood and chivalry.

Scripts are on reserve in the Library. Presentation will be Feb. 22-26 in the Gate Theatre.

Cigarette Contest Gives Cartons, Album Prizes

A tobacco company is sponsoring a contest on the University campus Dec. 10-20, according to Joe DeLuca, campus representative for the company.

Prizes for the three winners will be a carton of cigarettes and an autographed copy of Perry Como's latest record, "Home For The Holidays."

Kelch, Wawrzyniak Stirring In 'Streetcar' Performances

By GERALD MURRAY

The realism and stirring dramatic effect of one of the modern outstanding playwrights was brought to the campus last week end with full dramatic force when the University Theater produced Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire."

To name the outstanding performers is merely to follow down the list from the program. Blanche, Stella, Stanley, Mitch, and Eunice will surely be synonymous names to students for some time to come for Elaine Kelch, Carmie Stager, Dan Wawrzyniak, Don Peterson, and Margaret Stevens, respectively. Their performances were so completely in character and convincing throughout.

Miss Kelch stirringly portrayed the most difficult role of a neurotic and hyper-sensitive woman who has fallen to the role of prostitute through reasons she does not completely understand. Touching is the word for her acting as a woman who would like to uphold high ideals, but is incapable of doing so because of a diseased mind.

Stanley, the bull-headed, uneducated brother-in-law who is incapable of understanding Blanche's situation, is a role any actor would hesitate to portray following the stirring performance given by Marlon Brando in the film version. Dan Wawrzyniak not only handled the role excellently but brilliantly in that he succeeded in making Stanley an individual and not a Brando-like character.

The touching and realistic poise of Mrs. Stager in the role of Stella, well earns the comments repeated throughout the campus that, "That woman is an actress."

Margaret Stevens won approval as the landlady and friendly neighbor, and Don Peterson must be mentioned for his role as Blanche's Suitor.

In Our Opinion

S-D Day

President of the United States Dwight D. Eisenhower has proclaimed tomorrow, Dec. 15, Safe Driving Day throughout the nation. The object of S-D Day? Twenty-four hours without a traffic accident anywhere in the nation.

S-D Day may sound like a pretty big order, but it represents the goal and the challenge of a nation-wide traffic safety campaign. It calls for the greatest cooperative effort ever undertaken in behalf of traffic safety.

Instructions for the day are in short: "Drive and walk as you would have others drive and walk." This includes: "observe the letter and the spirit of all traffic regulations," "be courteous to every driver and pedestrian—practice good sportsmanship;" and "give full attention to driving and walking."

If strict adherence is paid to this commendable plan, it may mean a few less traffic deaths. Let us drivers of Bowling Green State University do our part to make this nation-wide test a success.

Greek Week '55

In order that Greek Week 1955 may be the best ever, plans are already being made by co-chairmen Marilyn Ray and Robert Smith. Committee heads have been appointed and one of the top bands of the nation has been contacted for the Greek Week Dance.

If we are to employ a really outstanding band, however, we've got to pay for it. Fraternities and sororities will be told this week that they will be asked to give a specific amount following vacation with which the dance committee may pay the down-payment for the band. Usually the down-payment in contracting a band is half the booking price, but Smith has announced that we have been given a special offer at less than half price. Each Greek will also be asked to pay a slightly larger amount for dance tickets.

The band contract must be made early, or we will have to be satisfied with a band which may not be our particular choice, but which happens to be available for the dance date. Therefore, it is imperative that we have the funds for the down-payment.

It's an old ruling—if we want the best we will have to pay for it.

Honoraries

sons actively interested in a specific field shall elect from the highest 35 per cent in scholarship.

4. "Election to membership in departmental honor societies shall be limited to those who have completed at least three semesters of work in his college." This means that no one below the rank of a second semester sophomore will be eligible for membership.

5. "Election to membership in general honor societies other than freshman honor societies shall not be held until candidates have completed four semesters of the college work."

Student Percentile

In conforming to these standards, the student's percentile rank will be based on his standing in his class (such as junior), in his college (such as Liberal Arts).

These standards do not affect the individuals who are now members, but new membership will be limited in accordance with the above standards as minimum requirements.

The Honors and Awards Committee of the University has the responsibility of deciding whether a specific honor group is meeting the requirements. The president and faculty adviser of any group which is not meeting the standards will be advised by this committee. The committee will also send a copy of the letter of notification to President McDonald.

Failure To Comply

Any honor group which fails to meet the minimum standards will be placed on probation for the remainder of the academic year and will be dropped from University recognition the following year unless in the meantime it has submitted evidence to the Honors and Awards Committee that it is meeting and will continue to meet the standards. No honor group which is on probation will be included in the program for Honors Day.

The Registrar will provide the Honors and Awards Committee with a statement of the point averages that are the dividing points for the upper 20 per cent and the upper 35 per cent of each class of each college, based on the cumulative averages at the close of the preceding academic year. That would mean that a senior's percentile rank would be based on his cumulative average for his junior year.

At Honors Day, recipients of individual awards based primarily on scholarship, whether general or departmental, shall be in the upper 20 per cent of their respective classes. Last year nearly all of the persons who received awards were in the upper 20 per cent of their classes.

Recipients of individual awards

This Cessna 170 is one of the airplanes available at the University Airport for charter flights by students, faculty, or businessmen. It is piloted by Ray B. Vaughan, airport superintendent.

Airport Offers Flight Services; Real Name Is Bricker Field

Are you going by car, train, or bus when you go home for Christmas? Did you ever consider another service offered in this area that is much faster for traveling great distances. This is the charter plane service at the University airport.

The rates for these charter flights for students and businessmen of this area is 20 cents per mile. For example, a flight from Bowling Green to a point 100 miles away would cost $40, which could be divided two or three ways, if there is more than one rider.

The University airport (Bricker Field) was started in May, 1942, with the purchasing of 80 acres of land from Warren Sterling. The City of Bowling Green contributed the remaining 40 acres through a 99-year lease.

Airport Named

The airport was named in honor of former Gov. and Mrs. John W. Bricker. The latter's grandparents, Gen. and Mrs. D. W. H. Day, formerly lived on the 80-acre farm bought from Mr. Sterling.

In 1942, the Navy V-5 Program was started to give enlistees pilot training. The first class began July 9, 1942 with 10 students enrolling.

Ronald Baringer of Defiance was the first to solo on July 23, and shortly after, Michael Henry Krouse, Lima, was the second to solo from Bricker Field.

After Baringer soloed, a new tradition was established on campus. All cadets after soloing were thrown into the pond behind Moseley Hall.

While the Naval Cadets were on camps, more than 550 completed their flight training and went on with their other training programs for the U.S. Navy.

In 1947, at the close of World War II, 353 GI's were enrolled in flight training at Bricker Field.

Deserted Field

Today, Bricker Field, lonely and almost deserted, carries on shop-work on private airplanes owned by persons in this area, airplane sales for Cessna Aircraft, photo work for local photographers who wish aerial photos, and local flights for students wishing to see the campus and scenery surrounding Bowling Green.

According to Ray B. Vaughan, superintendent of the airport, flight training courses are still offered to anyone wishing to acquire a private license for the operation of an airplane. For added information, phone 9481 or see Mr. Vaughan at the airport office.

Explosion Brings Rumors; Eisenhower Is Unharmd

BY GERALD MURRAY

The most popular topic around campus these days seems to be "Why did the AFROTC blow up the ROTC section of the Graphic Arts Bldg.?" Almost as popular is the criticism that The B-G News put this news, its biggest news break of the year, on page two.

It's not as if we don't think explosions are good enough for our paper, it's just that the first and fourth pages had already been printed before the explosion occurred. It would not exactly be profitable to reprint over 3,000 copies of the newspaper, so we had to pull a story from the second page in order to insert the explosion story. We were actually lucky that we were able to have the story included in the paper at all.

As usual with freak accidents such as this one, all sorts of stories have been circulating. Perhaps the most fortunate occurrence was that the Pershing Rifles decided that evening to meet in the Ad Bldg. at 8 p.m. instead of the Graphic Arts Bldg.

Eisenhower came through the blast without so much as a grimace. A student who entered the building following the explosion testifies that of all the pictures of generals that were hanging on the ROTC office walls, only the commander-in-chief's picture had been unharmd. All the rest of the generals' pictures were upside down or on the floor.

To the Drs. Platt: We were quite surprised while leafing through the University directory recently to find that Mr. Platt is denoted as married but that Virginia B. Platt is not.

Just in case you've heard the rumor that real beer was used in "A Streetcar Named Desire," don't believe a word of it. The cast had planned to be realistic in the scene where Stanley pours beer foam over his head, but "chickened out" and used ginger ale at the last minute.

Speaking of "Streetcar," the general comment throughout the University is that it is the most outstanding production since "Hamlet," (if you remember when) and "Dark of the Moon." We'd like to add that we would not think of asking for a better all-around production barring only Broadway itself.

It was quite amazing to find that so many of our students could be found interested in one common topic, all at the same time, when Dr. S. I. Hayakawa spoke Tuesday morning.

It's the first time we've ever seen the auditorium packed so tightly that people were sitting and standing in the aisles of both the main floor and the balcony. Some 100 others were listening to the relay of the speech in the Recreation Hall. It would be interesting, however, to find out how many of those students would have been present if their instructors had not placed so much emphasis on attendance.

The 1954 "The Messiah" production Sunday evening was one of the best-attended of recent years. The performance was up to the expectations of the listeners, and many first timers found it an enjoyable experience. WBGU broadcast the entire performance this year.

COMPLAINT DEPT. In case you've wondered why our name has been added to the top of this column lately, it's a complete case of vanity on our part. We were under the impression that our readers understood that the editor wrote "lines at deadline" but have been discovering differently.

Miami, Dayton Hand BG Third And Fourth Losses

By BILL COPPER AND DON GETTER

Bowling Green's unpredictable Falcons lost to Miami Friday night, but gave the Redskins a royal fight before dropping the contest, 78-75.

Jim Tucker, Bill Rogers, and Lanny Miles kept the Falcons in the game with their sharp-shooting. Tucker led the way with 18 points. Rogers hit for 17 while fast-improving Miles garnered 13.

Soar In Front

BG started the game as if they were going to scalp the Redskins. They took a 15-5 lead in the early minutes and it looked like they were out for blood. Luther Cain, sophomore center, who is improving constantly, helped the Falcons with a bucket and two foul shots early in the game.

However, Miami's fast-break began to click and eight straight points put them back in the contest. From there it was a see-saw battle until Miami took a 22-21 lead, which they never relinquished.

The Falcons came close near the end of the game, but were never able to cope with the fine shooting of sophomores Ron Ellis and Tom Williams.

Nine Women Pass Swan Club Tests

Four freshmen women and five upperclass women have passed the requirements to become members in the Swan Club, said Iris Andrews, director of the synchronized swimming group.

Freshmen who have been accepted are: Maureen Burns, Linda Tieman, Moralyann Wonnors, and Adela Grove. Upperclassmen are: Norma Morrison, Sue Schoenlein, Mary Gerber, Janet Thompson, and Martha Ruck.

Nine members of last year's winning team, are working on a new number for intercollegiate competition, to be presented at the University of Illinois Dec. 17. With these initiates, the Swan Club now numbers 28 women. There is no specific quota, said Miss Andrews, but the requirements for entry to the club are quite rigid. She further added that those girls who did not make the club this year should try again next year, as many of the present members didn't make it their first time.

During the first few basketball games a loud, low noise, sounding like the Bronx cheer, has been heard throughout the Bowling Green Gym. It happens whenever big "Luke" appears in action. Actually, the fans are not booing Cain, but are just yelling "Luke."

Luther Cain is a tall 6'6" center from Columbus who tips the scales at 215. In his senior year at Columbus Linden McKinley, Luke averaged 20 points a game and was named to the all-Columbus selections.

His best shot is a hook from the pivot. Cain has improved vastly from his freshman year and figures to give Max Chapman good backing in the center position.

Luke's ambition is to become a high school basketball coach and he is getting a good background for it as a physical education major.

Cain is a great outdoorsman. He engages in both fishing and hunting. Formerly from Kentucky, it is quite normal for Luke to pick as his idol a player from that university, former all-American Bill Spivey.

Only a sophomore, Luke should gain enough experience to become a real threat in future BG basketball games.

Sport Announcement

Preliminaries for the intramural swim meet will be held tonight (Tuesday) at 6:30 in the Natatorium. The final meet will be held Thursday, at 7 p.m.

Four Men Instrumental In Frosh Swimmers' Second Victory

Donald Worsfold, William Muir, Jack Michael, and John Thompson were instrumental in winning the second meet of the freshman swimming squad from the Toledo YMCA.

The freshmen took first place in seven out of ten events, losing only in the three relay events, to end up with a winning score of 45 to 39.

Worsfold, from East Lansing, Mich., broke the Toledo YMCA pool record for the 50-yard-free-style event, and tied the freshman record of Don Keppler for the same event, with a time of 24.2. He also broke Keppler's record for the 100-yard-free-style set in 1949, with a time of 54.7.

The events and winning times are:

300-yard-medley: won by Toledo, time 3:45.1. 220-yard-free-style, Muir (BG) first, Cochrell (T) second, Middling (BG), third. Falcons Attempt To Stop Losing Streak At Three Straight

The Bowling Green Falcons will attempt to get back on the winning trail tonight as they play host to the Western Reserve Red Cats. The Falcons three losses last week will undoubtedly str them to greater heights for tonight's game.

Western Reserve lost to Marshall College Saturday night, so both teams will be attempting to get back in the MAC running.

Miami beat both Bowling Green and Western Reserve by three points so the match should be a toss-up. However, the Red Cats are led by Dick Howard, last year named to the All-Mid-American, who is winding up a brilliant career at Western Reserve. He will offer much resistance to BG's defense as well as offense.

Returning with Howard from last year's team will be Bob Coy, Bob Blatchford and Bob Theiss. Thus, the Red Cats bring an aggregation that is capable of playing high caliber ball due to the returning lettermen they have.

Both WR and BG will be in need of a win to stay in the running for the championship of the MAC.

Loyola of Chicago comes to Bowling Green Friday night to try to avenge the 79-65 loss handed them by the Falcons last year. That game was televised nationally so they will want to show BG fans that the loss has not been forgotten.

Frosh Cagers Have Necessary Height

The key men of this year's frosh basketball team are tall and have shown much progress in their first games for Bowling Green. They are Dick Brown, 6'5" forward from Cleveland; Al Reinke, 6'6" center from Cleveland and Rudy Dioszegi, 6'10" pivotman from River Rouge, Mich.

Brown Led Team

Brown, in the frosh's last start against Detroit, led the team with 17 points in a losing 78-66 effort.

Reinke has been handling himself very well and has looked better with every appearance. His outstanding play at Cleveland Rhodes High School helped him to make the All-West Senate squad.

Dioszegi, with his size, could become another great Bowling Green center. He has come along in fine fashion and if he can learn to rebound better he will certainly be an asset to future Falcon teams.

Guards Outstanding

The team also features many fine guards who, with more confidence, may be hitting in double figures for Dale Herbert's yearlings.

Thirty-five men are still out for the squad, but it will be cut to 25 or 30 after Christmas. Of these players, many have impressed the coaches at different times.

Any one of these men could come into his own against Bliss College on Friday or against the Findlay JV's on Saturday.

PRESSBOX PORTRAITS

By DICK BUDD

Every so often things pop up in the world of sports that give great satisfaction to biased sports writers and loyal alma mater fans alike. Just such an item was brought to our sports desk this week.

A publicity bulletin from Bowling Green, Kentucky, gave us the following information. Western Kentucky, last of the Detroit and the Miami games. His smooth style has moved him into a starting birth where he will probably remain for a good while.

Luke Cain can be tabbed as the most improved man on the squad. He has always, in our opinion, been able to handle the ball well and now is beginning to use his height to pick off the rebounds. Look to this as only the beginning of improvements for the whole squad.

Bill Bradshaw became the first player to take the national punting title for small colleges two years in a row. Bradshaw averaged 43.9 yards per boot, one tenth of a yard below his average last year.

Harry Boykoff, proprietor of a local concern, is assisting the coaching staff for the Falcons this season. Boykoff is a former all-American from St. Francis in Brooklyn.

Wrestling Schedule

The schedule: Jan. 8, Ohio Wesleyan; Jan. 14, at Ohio University; Jan. 15, at Marshall; Jan. 19, at Toledo; Feb. 5, Case; Feb. 12, Western Ontario; Feb. 18, at Miami; Feb. 19, at Earlham; Feb. 21, Findlay; Feb. 26, Kent State, and March 4 and 5, Mid-American Conference meet.
